MADISON FARMER ADMITS THE SHOOTING OF HIS SON-IN-LAW

FIVE HUNDRED ARE EXPECTED ATTEND IN B. Y. P. U. MEET

Parade To Form At Malone Park At 10:30 o'clock

FLOATS ENTERED FROM CHURCHES

State Officers Will Be Among Guests Of The Cities

Preparations will be concluded Wednesday for the entertainment of approximately 500 members of the Morgan County B. Y. P. U., and their parents who will come here on Thursday for the all day picnic and outing at Malone Park.

A parade of floats, representing the 38 churches in Morgan County will precede the program for the day. The parade will be assembled at Malone park and will leave that point at 10:30 o'clock, winding its way toward Second avenue. At Second avenue the parade will proceed south to Ninth street and thence back Sixth avenue into Ferry, down Ferry to Church, Church to Bank, down Bank to Lee and from Lee into Second avenue and back Moulton street to the park. Judges will be assembled at the corner of Moulton to view the floats and elect the winners.

Prominent speakers will be heard beginning at 11:30 o'clock.

Dinner will be served on the grounds near the noon hour, followed by games and stunts by the various units of the association.

A ball game will conclude the day's activities, Bethel church and business men of these cities meeting at 3:30 o'clock at Malone Park.

R. Elton Johnson, state secretary of the B. Y. P. U. and Miss Lillie Mitchell, district vice-president of Northern district, Florence, will be among the officials of the organization who will attend the gathering.

The purpose of the meeting according to Mr. Nethery will be to demonstrate the work of the organization and its worth to the county.

CROP CONDITION DECLARED GOOD

Valley Review Is Given Today By T. L. Baker

Reviewing the Tennessee Valley crop condition today, T. L. Baker local observer, believed that indications for splendid yields in cotton and corn are better than in previous years. Touring the western section of the valley, Mr. Baker reported no pests to be found in the cotton.

Mr. Baker declared in his report: "corn needs rain as far west as Town Creek, Lawrence county. Cotton is fruiting nicely, though late from Albany-Decatur to the Tri-Cities. Cool, damp spring has delayed the crop about ten days. No pests reported in cotton."

"Not much hay has been grown" he declared.

"Crops in Limestone, Madison and Morgan counties very promising for exceptional yields."

Baptists Gather To Receive Bids

Officials of the Central Baptist church and building committee met this afternoon to receive bids for construction of their handsome new edifice. If any of the bids are satisfactory, it is expected that the contract will be awarded at once.

Drunken Officers Attack Guests After Making Raid

LUTHERANS PASS STRONG RESOLVE

Church Opposes The Plan For Placing Bible In School

Members of St. Paul's Lutheran church will endeavor to frustrate every attempt made to nullify the strict separation of Church and state and will directly and immediately oppose every effort to introduce religious instruction into state supported schools. It was stated today by R. W. Hahn, pastor of the local church.

The state is secular," the pastor stated, "and has no right to teach religion. Moreover it is the church's business to impart Biblical truths, and that without the aid of the state. Such attempted comingling of church and state is un-American and un-Biblical," he concluded.

The action taken by the membership, in the form of a resolution is published elsewhere in the Daily.

Baker Sees Need For Produce House

An increase in truck farming in this section of the Valley was talked today by T. L. Baker who added that the need for marketing facilities are great in this immediate territory. Mr. Baker was of the opinion that a good produce house shipping truck from here to other points in carload lots will greatly improve conditions among the farming classes and that increased wealth can be realized by this county.

Bishop Will Be a Visitor Here

Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs, Birmingham, will fill the pulpit of First Methodist church, Decatur, making his first official visit here since his appointment to take charge of two Alabama districts. Bishop Dobbs will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and a cordial invitation is being extended the public to hear him. Rev. Tyler will have charge of the evening service.

First Load of Local Melons

The first load of Morgan County grown watermelons was brought here today by Roy Grizzard, the melons having been grown on the H. D. Grizzard place, near here.

PROTESTANT missionaries plan to leave Mexico before July 31, when new religious laws go into effect. They say their usefulness will end.

"El Universal Grafico" reports that every Catholic church in Mexico will be closed. The government denies it, saying no school or church will be molested that obeys the law.

All church property is to be confiscated on the ground that such property has been held by the church unlawfully for the last fifty years. No religious instruction will be permitted in schools and religious publications may not mention or comment on news of national political affairs.

THE law is evidently aimed especially at the Catholic church, the national church of Mexico. A statement issued by the MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 20.—Four persons were shot and wounded, two seriously and eight others severely clubbed by two Muskogee officers who early today became crazed by liquor secured in raids and ran amuck in three hotels.

The officers, Paul Davis, a deputy sheriff and Ves Cormack, city detective, ran about the halls of the hotels battering down doors and firing at guests as they lay in bed. When their ammunition became exhausted, they beat their victims with clubs and smashed windows.

Fellow officers responding to a riot call were forced to shoot Davis several times in a fight to overpower him. His condition is critical. Cormack was easily subdued and placed in jail, several other persons are believed to have been injured, but had not reported to police. The more severely injured were taken to hospitals while many fled to nearby hotels or private homes.

Officers investigating the case said that Davis and Cormack had been engaged in liquor raids during the evening. Search of their automobile revealed several empty bottles and a quantity of whiskey. All of the injured were believed to have been residents of Muskogee.

Entering a small hotel shortly after one o'clock, the pair started shooting through doors at fixtures and at guests attempting to escape down halls. They then entered an adjoining hotel and repeated the attack. It was while engaged in their third raid that the riot squad arrived and captured them.

Cormack was too dazed to talk this morning and Davis was not rational. Shortly after Davis was captured he said, "It would be better if we both had been killed."

Ed Conway, merchant policeman, was severely wounded in trying to overpower Cormack.

Mrs. J. M. Roden was shot in the forehead but has a chance of recovery, physicians said. A negro porter and an unidentified man received slight wounds.

Six of the most severely beaten men are: Homer Pittman, policeman condition serious; Tom Smith, owner of one of the hotels and his son, John Smith; Benjamin Butts, K. Forly and "Blackie" Williams, all of Muskogee.

War On Religion To Conquer Lightning Blue For Bees—Not Flies Only $230,000,000

Mexican government says: "Regulations apply to all religions, but the Catholic church is most effected, because it is the purpose of the Mexican government to keep the Catholic church outside of politics."

The rest of the world will watch with interest this revival of an old quarrel between church and state.

WHEN the arsenal at Lake Denmark blew up, it was asked here whether the government had seriously studied protection from lightning. That lightning flash at Lake Denmark cost this country $100,000,000 and many lives. "Everything had been done to protect against lightning," said the government.

Now Professor Pupill, teacher of electro-mechanics at Columbia University, says the discussion of the possibility of improving Second avenue has been renewed in official circles and some hope was expressed that a satisfactory plan, involving the use of cold asphalt, might be worked out soon.

FIRE CAMPAIGN BEGINS IN CITIES

Four "Investigators" Busy On The Job Here Today

Albany-Decatur's "Fire Prevention Week" got away to a good start today when four employees of the "Safety First Association," began the canvassing of these cities. The campaign has received the heartiest endorsement of city officials, insurance agents and civic clubs.

Canvass of the cities will continue through the present week and recommendations for alterations in flames, the cleaning of flues and other necessary precaution against fire, will be made by the men on duty.

Officials of the Albany and Decatur fire departments are making the rounds with the canvassers. Every home in Albany-Decatur will be visited during the campaign.

MEMORIAL BRIDGE IS SUGGESTION

Place Names of Hero Dead On Tablets at Approaches

Sometime ago a suggestion was made that the highway bridge across the Tennessee river here be named in honor of the late W. S. Keller, for many years state highway engineer of Alabama, but so far as known no action has been taken to make the name official.

F. A. Bloodworth, president of the Morgan County National bank, has offered a suggestion to the American Legion of Morgan and Limestone county that if the name "Keller" is not adopted, that the bridge be made a memorial to the soldier dead of the two counties.

Mr. Bloodworth would have the Legion posts of Morgan and Limestone counties place the names of their hero dead on bronze tablets to be placed on each side of the bridge.

With the time rapidly approaching for completion of the structure, action looking to the finding of a suitable memorial is expected at an early date.

Power Company Improves Lines

Alabama Power company construction crews are today employed in South Albany where lines in that section are undergoing repairs and construction. Lethel Smith is in charge of the work. It is expected that the work will be completed by the end of the week, providing for improved service in that section of Albany.

Fifty Teams at Work on Highway

"FAITHFULS" WILL GO INTO MADISON TO FIGHT WRITER FOR MR. PATTERSON FOR NEWS ATTACK

Caravan To Leave Here Wednesday Afternoon

GROTTO BAND TO ATTEND TRIP

Road Analysis Has Been Favorable Says Rountree

Leaving these cities Wednesday afternoon at 4:15, Patterson-Forgo Governor Boosters, accompanied by the Albany-Decatur Grotto Band will journey to Huntsville where a parade will be staged to herald the coming of the Morgan candidate. Mr. Patterson will speak at the Elks Theatre Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

Arriving on the Pan-American Wednesday morning, Mr. Patterson, accompanied by a number of his Morgan friends, will go immediately into Limestone county where he has five speaking engagements. The Morgan candidate will speak at Ardmore at 11 a.m.; Elkmont, 12:30 p.m.; Legtown, 2 p.m.; Salem 3:30; Cartwright, 4:30 p.m. Mr. Patterson then wends his way into Madison county where increasing interest in his candidacy is manifest. He speaks at Monrovia school on Thursday morning at 11:30 and Friday will enter Jackson county.

Regard Report
Charles T. Rountree, Patterson's Morgan chief, declared today with reference to the report of the Alabama Automotive Association that the Breed report was "made to fit the Patterson platform."

"I know of no other candidate in the race whose platform so nearly follows the recommendation of the Association as does Mr. Patterson's," was the comment of the Morgan campaign leader.

Others in this county are of the opinion that the Automotive report has greatly aided the chances for Mr. Patterson's nomination. The report did not advocate a bond issue, other than at the desire of the people, while the Bigdow report was opposed to the road bond issue as being "unsalable."

Patterson's sortie into Limestone, Madison and Jackson counties likely will be his last of the campaign into the northern district, only twenty days now separating the candidates from the August primaries.

MAN ARRESTED

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 20.—A man in priest attire, calling himself the Rev. Phillip A. Goodwin, of Los Angeles, Calif., a former actor, was held by police here today for the sheriff at Santa Anna, Calif., to answer to a murder charge. Goodwin was arrested last night at the National Vaudeville club.

SYLACAUGA, Ala., July 20.—Johnson died of his wounds early this afternoon.

SYLACAUGA, Ala., July 20.—Patterson to the draw by only a few seconds, Ralph W. Johnson, automobile dealer and son of the late L. P. Johnson, former mayor of this city, was shot through the forehead today in the city clerk's office by Patrolman Hugh H. Lakey.

Johnson was rushed to the Sylacauga infirmary. No hope is held for his recovery.

Jack Person, chief of police, was shot in the left arm by a stray bullet from Lakey's gun, but escaped with a flesh wound.

Rudy Is Wrought Up Over Editorial In Tribune

NOT ANY STUNT FOR PUBLICITY

Screen Idol Wants Encounter With "The Coward"

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 20.—Rudolph Valentino arrived in New York today, itching to fight the man who wrote an editorial "Pink Powder Puffs," published in the Chicago Tribune.

The editorial said the shiek of the movies "should have been drowned years ago" and concluded with: "Rudy, the beautiful gardener's boy, is the prototype of the American male." He admitted writing a letter to the newspaper about it.

"As soon as I had written the letter," he said, "I handed it to my publicity agent and let him do the rest."

"I am mad," Valentino rasped out to reporters. "I'll make whoever wrote that foul stuff look like a full moon. This is no publicity stunt, I'm really mad."

Valentino, interviewed in the Ambassador Hotel, sat in an easy chair, the height of fashion in costume, but his eyes flashed.

The editorial was due to the opening of a new ball room in Chicago where in the men's lounge a slot machine provided powder puffs and powder.

Valentino was in Chicago yesterday enroute to New York and yesterday the newspapers received in the mail a letter supporting to have been signed by him and demanding satisfaction, American style, for what the latter termed "a scurrilous personal attack upon me, my race and my father's name." The letter explained that Valentino bore no grievance toward the Tribune but only against the "cowardly writer."

"I call you in return," the letter read "a contemptible coward and to prove which of us is a better man, I challenge you to a personal test."

Cullman Road Is Being Built

The Bee Line highway, between the Morgan county line and the city of Cullman now is under construction and grading is progressing rapidly. Some construction work also is being done south of Cullman and it is necessary to make several detours between the end of the paved road, at the Morgan county line, and the beginning of the gravel road south of Cullman.

Dr. T. E. Walsh was accused of responsibility for the death of Edith Green, whose dismembered body was found near a Boston cemetery.

NEW TEST MADE OF VOLSTEAD LAW

A Product for Making Beer Banned By U. S. Officials

(Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 20.—A new test of the ramifications of the Volstead act has been inaugurated by federal authorities here in a drive on a non-alcoholic product, which has already resulted in the seizure of the Archer Products plant and arrest of 35 employees.

Government attorneys intend to prove the product, known as "wort," is manufactured solely in making beer, and therefore is produced in violation of the statutes.

"Wort," according to Assistant United States District Attorney Jacob M. Crossman is the first essential to the manufacture of beer. He said that yeast and fermentation would transform it into an alcoholic beverage with pre-Volstead "kick." In reality a mash, Crossman said, "wort" is condensed in small cans and sold to the wildcat producer, who can add yeast and have real beer with a minimum of equipment.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Prohibition authorities expressed concern today over the increasing popularity of a "product" which is being shipped about the country in the form of "Worts" and is easily transformed into beer by the addition of yeast.

E. C. Yellowley, prohibition administrator in Chicago, has been directed to prosecute the Archer Products company, where arrests were made yesterday. Prohibition administrators also were instructed today to deny permits to those breweries manufacturing "Worts" for wholesale distribution.

"There is no question but that 'Worts' is the basis of beer," A. H. Doran, chief prohibition chemist said today, "and that it is easily transformed into good beer with the addition of a little yeast. It is becoming very popular and agents report increasing shipments of the product in five and ten gallon lots."

Authorities here also mentioned the increasing popularity of grape "must" which is being shipped from California.

Messenger Shot By Bank Gang

(Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, July 20.—Five or six robbers today shot and wounded Sandy Morgan, negro messenger of the City Trust company, when he resisted a hold up and escaped in an automobile with $16,000. The robbery was at Twelfth street and Washington avenue, a busy corner in the wholesale district.

The messenger was shot in the left leg and left hip and received scalp wounds when struck over the head with a revolver. Witnesses said at least five shot were fired.

JOE DUNN CALLS ON SHERIFF AFTER ALLEN'S SLAYING

Believe 2 Men Fell Out Over Liquor Operations

SLAIN MAN WAS ARMED ALSO

Part of Liquor Still Found In Home Of The Slayer

(Associated Press)
HUNTSVILLE, July 20.—Joe Allen, farmer, was shot and killed late last night on the Walter Allen plantation, south of Merriam and Joe Dunn, father-in-law of the slain man, has come to the city and surrendered to Sheriff D. M. Gardiner, admitting that he killed Allen.

He has made no statement, but it is believed that the men had a falling out over liquor operations. Allen was shot through the heart, a rifle being the weapon that killed him.

When found, a shotgun lay across his body and there was a pistol in his pocket.

After Dunn surrendered officers searched his home and claim to have found parts of a liquor still.

Hudson Allen, nephew of Joe Allen, who was killed last night by his father-in-law Joe Dunn, was brought to the city hospital today suffering from several wounds which are said to have been inflicted by Dunn, using a shot gun, loaded with buck shot, also from wounds made by a different weapon.

This is believed to bring the fourth party into the case and a warrant has been issued for a person whose name has not been disclosed.

BALLOTS ARRIVE WITHIN FEW HOURS

Absentee Votes Can Be Cast In This County

Ballots for Morgan County voters are expected to arrive today. A letter was received this morning from the Birmingham printers by the local probate court, stating that the ballots were placed in the mail last night, but they had not arrived this morning.

Some delay in printing the Morgan County ballots was occasioned, it was explained, by the fact that it was necessary to await the certification of county candidates from the democratic executive committee, which was given until within 15 days of election to make such certification, whereas the absentee voting law provided that ballots could be obtained 30 days prior to the election.

B. A. of R. E. To Have a Barbecue

The Benefit Association of Railway Employees, Albany Division 170, will have a barbecue on Saturday, July 24, at Adele Springs, to which all members and their families are extended an invitation to attend. It was announced today by T. L. Hartung. It was pointed out that in the event the barbecue work on that date that the barbecue will be served at five in the afternoon, otherwise the picnic will be enjoyed at the noon hour. All members are urged to notify the secretary if they are going to be present.

PARIS—

Paris is to have a new Art Museum for the exhibition of both modern and classic painting, sculpture and other objects of art. It will house the important collection of the Parisian philanthropist and art collector, Monsieur Ernest Cognacq who is giving this collection to the state. It will be entirely modern. Nothing old will have the ghost of a chance in this new museum. The objects to be shown will be grouped after new principles which will make seeing them a pure delight for tired tourists. A new system of lighting will show off every detail to the very best advantage.

A Garage for Women Only is being constructed in one of the most aristocratic quarters of Paris. The growing number of women who drive their own cars has brought about the necessity of such a building. The ladies say they prefer to park their cars where there are no men. The mechanics, cleaners, etc., will all be of the fair sex, but very likely wearing men's clothing. Of course the comforts will include manicures, and a very modern hair-dressing parlor where Madame may "make over" her beauty when she returns from the promenade.

To put away money for a rainy day is a very good thing. But to forget all about it afterward, is disastrous. Madame Blaseau of the rue Saint Martin was doing her spring cleaning recently and decided to throw away some old clothes cluttering up the closets. A few days later she happened to remember that her saving amounted to about two hundred dollars were carefully hidden away in one of the old coats. Of course she told the police her sad tale and they immediately located the ragpickers of the quarter who declared they had seen nothing of the money.

There is still one remaining amanuensis in Paris, the sole representative of ancient trades now extinct, such as the postillon and water-carrier.

This amanuensis who inhabits a small street adjacent to the Faubourg St. Denis, does not use a goose-quill and wears no funny little skull-cap and percale sleeve-protectors. He is about forty years old and dresses with all the elegance of the Boulevardier and uses a typewriter. More than that, he is well-acquainted with all the laws and advises his client upon the form of their tax declarations, etc. His well-kept office is furnished in the most modern fashion and is filled with charming midinettes, typists and office-boys in uniform. The amanuensis drives down town every morning in one of the finest motor cars.

"Be as generous as you like," declares the Paris Prefect of Police, announcing his decision in the matter of rewards for the returning of lost articles.

Monsieur Morain says he has no right to fix the reward that should be paid to the honest man and refuses to give any authority for asking a percentage of value from the owner. The question was raised by a member of the Municipal Council who thinks that a supplementary reward ought to be given to honest finders in addition to the four per cent paid by the city.

Nethery Given Bible By B. Y. P. U.

W. E. Nethery, prominent B. Y. P. U. worker, was presented a beautifully bound Bible last night, when about 100 young people gathered at the Nethery home, 1716 Fifth avenue South in honor of his birthday anniversary, which was Sunday.

Good railroad transportation is cheap

"There are three things which make a nation great and powerful—a fertile soil, busy workshops and easy conveyance for men and goods from place to place."—LORD BACON

POOR railroad transportation, with its attendant delays and uncertainties, is expensive and wasteful, irrespective of the charges for it. All shippers know that.

On the other hand, regular and dependable service greatly assists the economical operation of industry. All shippers know this, too.

Thus the cost to the purchaser of railroad service must be measured as much by the quality of the service as by the actual charge in dollars and cents.

But even the actual dollar and cent calculation of railroad charges shows how cheap service on the Southern Railway System is in relation to other things. The cost of almost everything has increased about 70 per cent in the last decade, but the average freight charges on the Southern have increased only 35 per cent.

In relation to the cost of other things, transportation on the Southern is cheap. And when measured by the quality of service rendered, it is one of the cheapest things that can be bought today.

TODAY From The Daily of 12 Years Ago

Slaughter Banks, prominent citizen, was drowned in the Tennessee river Saturday evening, when he fell from the Tennessee river bridge.

D. W. Speake, prominent merchant of South New Decatur, left this morning for Montgomery to take the pasture treatment.

Company E, Alabama National Guard, will leave tonight for Montgomery, where the state militia will be encamped 10 days.

Judge W. E. Skeggs today presented The Daily with some fine peaches which he grew at his home place on Johnston street. The Daily acknowledges its gratitude.

IS THE WORLD GROWING BETTER? DOTHAN VETERAN SAYS IT IS

Discouraging outbreaks of lawlessness so frequently mar the civic horizon of this nation, often one wonders whether or not the world is growing better or worse.

The experience of "Tobe" Domingus, chief of police of Dothan, Alabama, who now is serving his 38th year as head of the police department of that city, shows conclusively that whatever change there has been in that community has been for the better. The change in Dothan is reflected to a very great extent in the progress of every other community in the state. Alabama, as a whole, is better, in a moral sense, today than it has ever been, despite the sporadic outbreaks of crime which are so disheartening.

The Dothan Eagle, in a two-column story describing many of the experiences of Chief Domingus, says:

During his entire career, Chief Domingus probably has arrested personally more people than there are in Dothan today, but conditions have changed. In the early days people were more resentful of the interference of the law with their pleasures than they are today and an arrest usually called for a fight. There was a fight in town nearly every day and four or five on Sundays. Chief Domingus recalls one day in 1904 when he alone made eighteen arrests in the wagon yard which used to be on the site now occupied by Alemitte Service company on St. Andrews street.

Lawlessness has changed, the chief stated. A quarter of a century ago there was more violence, more fights, drunkenness and the like, but violation of the law made no attempt to conceal their lawlessness. While today, he said, most of the lawlessness with which the police have to contend is committed "under cover."

The early Dothan police force had its traffic problems just as it has today. Thirty years ago the intersection on Main and St. Andrews streets was likely to become jammed with ox carts, wagons and buggies most any time and particularly on Saturdays. An officer had to keep an eye on the wagon yards where anything from a traffic jam to a "free-for-all" or shooting affair was likely to break loose at any moment.

The bar rooms were not all with which the police had to contend in the early days, Chief Domingus stated. Some people in the rural districts made "moonshine" even at that time and when one of these "moonshiners" came to town and mixed his "moonshine" with "store bought" liquor, he got pretty wild.

The deductions drawn from the history of Chief Domingus' police activity may be a bitter pill for those who are wont to harp on the "degeneracy" of the modern life with its prohibition, "wild cat liquor," short skirts, petting parties and cigarettes, but few of us have had the opportunity for observation that has fallen to the lot of the veteran Dothan police officer and his word must be taken for what it is worth.

REPORT OF SURVEY HAS GOOD POINTS BUT LACKS SOMETHING IN CONCLUSIVENESS

The anxiously anticipated reports of H. Eltinge Breed, eminent consulting engineer and Dean Bidgood, of the University of Alabama, on the highway situation in Alabama, together with recommendations for the future, have been delivered before the Alabama Automotive Association, sponsors of the survey.

The report is interesting and is perhaps the most comprehensive yet made on the Alabama highway situation, is illuminating in spots, but it appears to lack something in conclusiveness.

The people of Alabama had hoped that the reports of these two gentlemen would place a definite stamp of approval or disapproval on the various platforms of the four candidates for governor, as they affect the future of highway construction in Alabama.

Mr. Breed estimates that the total cost of the highway system of Alabama will be $80,000,000, but he anticipates that it will be necessary to issue bonds totalling only $58,000,000; he opposes long time bond issues and does not emphatically endorse any bond issue whatever. Thus does he dispose of the plan suggested by Mr. McDowell for a $75,000,000 bond issue.

In fact, in connection with his financial recommendations, the engineer probably comes nearer fitting his suggestions to the platform of A. G. Patterson than to that of any other candidate. Mr. Patterson believes that sufficient revenue can be gleaned from sources other than bond issues to keep Alabama's highway construction program going. Dean Bidgood, in this connection, not only strenuously opposes a $75,000,000 bond issue, but insists that a five cent tax on gasoline is unreasonable and believes that some revenue for road building should come from other sources.

Mr. Patterson has repeatedly declared for a complete reorganization of the state highway department and in this demand he is joined by Mr. Breed, who suggests that an engineer of known ability be placed as head of the state highway department. A commission of three laymen would confer and co-operate with him, but the engineer would be the head of the department, under the Breed plan. Something of this kind, of course, is what Mr. Patterson has had in mind.

Mr. Graves and Mr. Carmichael, with their compromise programs for highway construction, both advocating a bond issue smaller than the $75,000,000 sought by Mr. McDowell, are much more difficult to place in relation to the Breed and Bidgood recommendations. The fact that Messrs. Graves and Carmichael have offered so few concrete proposals for Alabama's progress, in highway development as well as other fields, has been one of the disappointing features of the whole gubernatorial campaign.

They have offered so little in the way of suggestion for improvement of the highway situation that the Breed-Bidgood survey was expected to have little, or no effect, upon their campaigns and such appears to have been the result.

Perhaps the hardest blows struck by the reports at the McDowell campaign was the suggestion of Mr. Breed that the lay members of the reorganized commission be used largely as a buffer between the public and the engineer, so that the latter could continue highway construction unhampered by the demands of political expediency, and the suggestion that definite promises to counties for specific work be withheld until the relation of each piece of work to the whole structure of highway construction is considered.

One of the most common criticisms of the present campaign of Mr. McDowell has been the charge that roads were promised first one county, then another, provided Mr. McDowell is elected and the $75,000,000 bond issue is approved. Undoubtedly these charges, whether true or not, have been a cooling influence on the enthusiasm of advocates of the big bond issue.

A significant feature of the document prepared by Mr. Breed is the fact that he has no particular criticism to make of the present highway commission, except that he believes the commission has been guilty of making the same mistakes which any other group of laymen, without expert knowledge of highway building, might be expected to make. In fact Mr. Breed points out that blunders were made nearly everywhere when highway building first was started on a big scale. He expresses the hope, however, that, having been forewarned, Alabama will not make the same mistakes twice.

This will be somewhat disappointing to some of those who have been so virulent in their attacks on the personnel of the present state commission, but Mr. Breed speaks as an expert and without the bias of partisanship which causes so many of us Alabamians to believe that everybody who believes as we do is an angel and those who do not are the opposite.

In furtherance of his suggestions in regard to bonds, Mr. Breed states: "In considering values, it must be remembered that under the bond issue, every dollar that goes into roads has a carrying charge of forty cents; it cost $1.40 to get a dollar's worth of road. A large bond issue over a long period is a costly proposition, as is shown by the experience of New York state which, at the end of fifty years will have paid $203,905,344 for the $100,000,000 it originally borrowed to build highways." That is a serious warning to the people of Alabama and one which should cause them to check the plan offered by Mr. Patterson most carefully before they commit themselves to the programs of one of the several other plans offered.

The money required for the complete system, Mr. Breed points out, however, is $80,000,000. Of this amount he estimates that $38,600,000 will be necessary for through routes, $26,900,000 for connecting routes and $14,500,000 for bridges. Of this total $58,000,000, if desired, Mr. Breed says, could be properly provided from bond issue; $22,000,000 however, should be provided from current revenues because it will be used for non-permanent surfacing.

In other words Mr. Breed warns what a bond issue means in the way of expense and urges us to defray as large a share as possible of the cost of construction from the current revenues. Isn't that in a general sense, what Mr. Patterson offers?

The Automotive Association apparently has made every effort to keep the highway survey entirely removed from politics, but whatever political advantage there might be in the unanimous adoption by the association of the two reports, certainly must fall to Mr. Patterson.

Of course the report of Dean Bidgood, opposing the $75,000,000 bond issue is only the opinion of one financial expert and that is all that is claimed for it. Dean Bidgood, it must be recalled, however, has made an exhaustive study of the proposition and he has weighed his evidence carefully before speaking.

The survey reports had been looked forward to with intense interest by voters in all walks of life, as a movement, removed from politics, yet having a vital influence on the present political fight in this state. Probably the public had been led to expect more from the survey than was possible to contain in such a report, or reports. At any rate, the reports did not set the state on fire, as many partisans had hoped, but they did provide what, up to now, is the most complete summary of past accomplishments, present undertakings and future hopes in the matter of highway building in this state ever made public.

Other candidates will attempt to twist the findings of the survey to fit their own individual platforms. Careful readers, however, will find in the written statements of the survey's findings only an indirect endorsement of the platform of Andrew G. Patterson, Morgan's candidate for governor.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, religious oppression is the most cruel of all tyrannies, and, contrariwise, religious freedom is the sweetest of all liberties; and

Whereas, There can be no guarantee of the permanency of religious liberty in the absence of a full, clear, and honest separation of Church and State; and

Whereas, No doubt with the best intentions, but in momentary forgetfulness of the good old American principle of the separation of Church and State, some of our citizens are advocating the introduction of religious instruction, and that accredited, into the public schools of Albany-Decatur, or else would have religious instruction imparted to pupils of our public schools under the auspices, supervision, or control of the authorities of the public schools; and

Whereas, Such action, no matter what the intentions may be, is in reality the camel's nose seeking admission into the tent of our American liberties, a violation of both Biblical and American principles; now therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church (Missouri Synod), of Albany, Alabama, lift our voices in unanimous defense of our ancient American liberties and practices and in solemn protest against these and all other tendencies to undermine the institutions for which our patriots have bled and died; and be it further

Resolved, That while we view with satisfaction and sincere delight the general awakening to the truth that irreligion is the fundamental cause of the appalling wave of lawlessness and every other civic ill; and, while we would commend the public school authorities whenever they make it possible for the pupils of their schools to attend religious instruction in the church of their own choice, we must warn against every attempt on the part of the public school authorities to impart, control, or supervise religious instruction of any kind, or to express official opinion with regard to any religion, religious course of study, or the qualifications of teachers of religion and be it further

Resolved, That we pledge our unanimous approval and support to all such public school authorities as, being mindful of their oath of office, refuse to take part in any movement to depart from the principles and spirit of our Federal Constitution; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and that copies thereof be given to the press and to the city boards, and to the various superintendents of our public schools.

WHAT is color? Why are many men, with sight perfect, otherwise unable to distinguish red from blue? Why is a color-blind woman unknown? How do you explain the extraordinary fact that many women, absolutely blind, can distinguish colors by feeling; for instance, colors of yarns that they handle?

WHY do blind women sorting yarn in London like blue and dislike red?

MORE important because it is practical, why do flies dislike blue? Paint your kitchen bright blue and you have fewer flies.

On the other hand, if you paint beehives blue, the bees will be happier. Perhaps it is because bees enjoy themselves under the blue sky, while flies like to be out of the sunlight and away from the blue sky. In a blue kitchen they may think they are outdoors, under the sky. They are not very bright.

NEW ELECTRIC MACHINERY ARRIVES

Men are at work unloading the new electric light machinery which has arrived in Athens and will be housed in the new two story brick plant now in course of construction on the site of the old plant. The machinery was of such ponderous weight that the freight on it amounted to nearly two thousand dollars. It is being slowly transported from the railroad station to the new plant.

The machinery was recently purchased from the city of Lakeland, Florida at a bargain price and when installed will, it is said, furnish twice as much electricity as is at present available at one half the present cost. The work will probably be finished around September 1.

CORONER'S RACE LIVELY

In the Limestone political situation at present the greatest amount of interest is not centered on the Governor's and Senator's races but on the race for county coroner. Grigsby Griffith and Johnnie Jones are both aspirants for this office, and although hardly over one or two inquests have to be held each year, both candidates are putting up a lively fight. Griffith and Jones are both of an entertaining character and popular with every one about town.

BROKEN HEARTS OF HOLLYWOOD

Copyrighted by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"BROKEN HEARTS OF HOLLYWOOD" with Louise Dresser in a
Warner picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Betsy Terwilliger and Hal Chast. may be movie aspirants in Hollywood. When Hal is seriously hurt Betsy fights to support both. Hal, noted screen villain, gives her a part in his picture. Virginia Perry, critic who was a secret lover, discovers that she is Betsy's mother, but doesn't reveal it for fear of blighting the girl's career. Strangers by moved by Virginia's coaching, Betsy makes a great hit. Marshall, reputed to be responsible for many of the "broken hearts of Hollywood," entices Betsy to a hotel ostensibly to talk over a contract. When he makes advances, Betsy becomes just as Virginia breaks in.

Virginia dodged toward the open door to a connecting room. "I got in through there," she said. "Look, I've overheard your arrangements this afternoon, come here, I heard what room you had taken, hired the next one—and opened the connecting door with a skeleton key before you got here. I've heard every word of your rotten line, Marshall; but, believe me, you're not going to get away with it!"

"What are you butting into my business for—you, who weren't fit to bring up your own daughter?"

"You lie!" cried Virginia. "But as Marshall mentioned Virginia's own daughter a thought, a fact, struck him with the force of a gale of wind."

"Good God, why have I been so dumb not to remember? Now I know. Terwilliger! Your husband's name was John Terwilliger Howson. This girl—is your daughter?"

Betsy was stirring now, and Marshall began to laugh hysterically at Virginia, looking wildly from her to Betsy. "What a joke! What a joke! This fair, innocent creature the daughter of the worst set in Hollywood! Now you both are in my power, by God! What a story for the scandal hungry papers! McLain's pretty 'find' the daughter of Mrs. Perry, the besmirched outcast of the movies! And I'll broadcast it unless—"

Betsy was opening her eyes now, but without understanding as yet. Virginia's fingers tightened on the trigger of the gun that was pointed directly at Marshall's head.

"I'll tell her!" laughed Marshall, boisterously, whipping toward Betsy as if to shake her back to quicker consciousness to hear the news.

Those were his last words—that his last move. A pistol shot cracked on the air, and when Betsy, shocked into full consciousness, leaped to her feet it was to look with startled eyes from the sight of Marshall on the floor expiring in a pool of his own scarlet blood.

"I'll tell her!" laughed Marshall, boisterously, whipping toward Betsy as if to shake her back to quicker consciousness to hear the news.

"You've killed him, you wicked woman!" shrieked Betsy, clasping hands on which the knuckles showed white to her eyes, as if to close out a horrible nightmare.

"He deserved it," said Virginia tonelessly. "Thank God I did it just in time to prevent him from ruining you!"

But Betsy, in the frenzied excitement of the moment, could only remember that she had considered Marshall a good deal of a benefactor.

"Oh, oh," she screamed, "you shouldn't have done this! He wouldn't have harmed me. He had been good to me!"

Virginia was calm. "Get out of here quickly, child. They will be coming to get me."

"No, no! I'll stay and tell what you've done—testify against you. You've committed a terrible sin, and you must be punished."

Betsy was frantic. But loud knocking upon the hall door, which Marshall had locked, and harsh demands for entrance shocked her into a newer realization.

"You hear?" cried Virginia, laughing her police. "It's the police. They'll break in. Go while there's time—please, dear child, for my sake. Don't get your fair name mixed into this foul scandal."

Virginia was on her knees pleading now. She rose when she saw that Betsy was wavering and hurried her towards the adjoining room, pushed her in there, and flung a key into the room, good he escape, then closed and locked the door after her.

Then, quite self-contained again, not even noticing that she stood upon Marshall's limp hand as she stepped over him, Virginia went to the door and admitted the alarmed crowd of hotel officials, house detectives, policemen.

The picture that met their eyes told a complete story. There was only one thing. "Why did you do it?" asked one detective as he snatched the pistol out of her listless hand.

Virginia smiled faintly. "Oh, I don't know. Sort of an accident, I suppose. We were just carousing and I don't know exactly what happened. But it did happen, and there he is, and here I am, and what the hell of it?"

"Nothing much," said one of the burly cops, "except that in this county sentiment don't keep women who commit willful murder from getting their necks stretched on the gallows!"

CHAPTER XVII.
Scandal, like every other commodity, is governed largely by the law of supply and demand. If the public had no appetite for the morbid first inspection of dirty linen those first editions next morning would not have probed so vulgarly into Virginia's career. Yet the ill whir of publicity that stirred up everywhere left of Virginia's past but one good to the principals concerned. Betsy, reading the paper with Hal, to whom she had gasped the whole affair, understood at last the truth of Virginia's fascination interest in her. On Hal's advice she fled straight to McLain.

The prophesying policeman had reckoned without appreciation of the honest difference between moral sentimentalism and the tolerance of the newspaper law. McLain, after Betsy's tears and lips had told their tale, knew that no human jury would ever condemn a mother for saving her girl-child from stain.

It was McLain who took Betsy to Virginia in the city jail, then turned aside, with very unwillful eyes, dimming the eyes which the professional heartlessness had thrilled untold millions, while mother and child found each other.

And it was McLain who gaily threw five a month later at the station where Betsy and Hal waited to board the eastbound train with Virginia, their mother, whom they were taking to the peaceful seclusion of the Valley.

Clare was there, too—dear, cynical Clare, who still talked about "quitting this bum game," but never would. Clare tested Betsy:

"Don't you regret giving up your career just when it was starting?"

Betsy merely laughed and shook her head: "No more reaching for the moon! The broken hearts of Hollywood are not the fault of the profession, but of the silly, romantic boys and girls who rush toward the glittering mirage of easy money only to find it doesn't exist! There isn't any easiest way in the movies or any other business. Cameron was right—it's hard work plus natural talent. And the only talent I had—was the help of dear friends!"

"Any acting we do hereafter will be in the Gentile Dramatic Club," laughed Hal.

"See that they don't make you ride a horse, Hal," chuckled McLain.

"And don't let them cast you in a bathing girl part, Betsy, dear," teased Clare.

Hours later the Limited bore them into the haven of the Valley, where honeymoon brushed like a balm over all life's sorest hurt-wounded ambition.

"Now I understand the strange sense of being at home that I felt when I first saw the Valley," exclaimed Betsy. "It has always been destined to be my home—with you, dear Hal!"

Later, when Virginia had been welcomed to the bosoms of the Chastneys, the lovers strolled away alone into the Valley. Dusk was coming on, a gentle breeze nodded the meadow grasses.

"Remember—that first night in Hollywood?" whispered Betsy, awed: "I had a vision then of us walking forever down this Valley, hand in hand."

Hal's kisses strummed like a benediction on the cupid's bow of her lips. Again a low descending sun stole the flame from the wild flower candles. But on the altars within the hearts of Betsy and Hal now were lighted tapers that neither time nor distance nor night nor storm would ever extinguish.

The End.

A HARVEST OF DEATH TO BE AVERTED

An Educational Campaign for Women on Prenatal Care Would Save Thousands of Lives Which Now Perish Yearly.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

ACCORDING to a recent announcement made by the United States Public Health Service, one out of every 150 mothers die in child birth. This means that in the United States 15,000 mothers die every year.

This report states, too, that every year nearly a quarter of a million babies die in the United States who have not reached one year of age. Of these, 100,000 die during the first month of life.

These are terrible figures. Such a harvest of death is unnecessary. When we become really civilized and give every prospective mother the instruction she is entitled to receive, these figures will be changed.

The Public Health Service emphasizes the need of an educational campaign for women. The Service wants literature distributed and instruction given in every possible way.

It is an unfortunate thing that many a prospective mother never consults a physician until a few minutes before the birth of the baby. This is all wrong. She needs advice from the moment she knows her condition.

Many a case of kidney disease which could be successfully dealt with by early discovery is entirely overlooked. A bad heart, an unsuspected physical deformity, and other hazardous factors are undiscovered because of the failure to get competent medical advice.

It is all nonsense talking about the good old times. There were no good old times so far as mothers were concerned. Go into any old-time graveyard and study the tombstones. You will be shocked at the number of deaths occurring in infancy and the number of young mothers who were buried beside their infants.

If there is one thing in which we have made progress, it is in protecting the lives of infants and the lives of their mothers, but we haven't gone far enough. We must not permit one out of every 150 mothers to die in childbirth.

The great trouble with young mothers is that they hesitate to talk about the matters we are discussing. They are unwilling to confide in the family physician. This is a mistake. Frankness and good sense at this time will mean the saving of a baby's life and perhaps the saving of a mother, too.

The first thing a young couple should do after choosing a place of residence is to find out where is the nearest good doctor. If you are in doubt about this, ask the health officer of the town to tell you. Go to the priest or rabbi or minister and let him advise where there is an up-standing, fine physician. Don't be in a hurry to make the selection, but

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

It is reported that one of the fastidious newly married ladies of this town kneads bread with her gloves on. This incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper kneads bread with his shoes on; he kneads bread with his shirt on; he kneads bread with his pants on, and unless some of the delinquent subscribers to this "Old Rag of Freedom" pony up before long, he will knead bread without a darn thing on, and this is no Garden of Eden in the winter time.

During his first few days in camp the young recruit was the victim of so many practical jokes that he doubted all men and their motives. One night while he was on guard, the tall figure of one of the officers loomed up in the darkness before him.

"Major Moses," replied the officer.

The recruit scented a new joke. "Glad to meet you, Moses," he said cheerfully. "Advance and give me the ten commandments."

Barons Win While Pels Are Idle; Pirates and Reds Keep Up Pace

While the Pels were sleeping soundly on a rainy day, the Barons managed to gain half a game with a ninth inning verdict over the Mobile Bears 7-6. Memphis took a slugfest from Chattanooga to hold on to second place by a good margin.

Both the Barons and Bears hit hard all afternoon to gather a total of 26 hits, the Barons getting 4 of the safeties. Tex Jeanes waited until the ninth to drop a single in center field, then raced around to third on Chapman's single to left. Jeanes came home when Gillis sacrificed to deep center. The Bears had tied things in the eighth. Memphis continued a stranglehold on the second rung of the Southern ladder by defeating Chattanooga 17-14. The teams gathered 39 hits for the afternoon. Eddie Lewis, already premier base thief in the Southern circuit, gathered two more hasecks onto the fold with his fleetfooted antics ahead of Memphis pegs.

The Vols took one from the Rocks 5-4. Nashville with one of the best clubs in the circuit, according to league compilations of batting and fielding, has been a source of disappointment to fans this year. The Vols have not yet struck their stride, although they are playing good baseball. The Vols have been hanging around fourth place since the race began.

Pirates and Redlegs continued their hectic race in the chase pennantward. The Cards suffered a reverse at the hands of the Phillies.

Carl Mays who was considered a cast-off several years ago, delivered another bitter dose to the Robins 5-2. Zach Wheat seemed to be the only man who could clout the agate off the submarine twirler and the Robins were content with eight safeties. The Redlegs gathered an even number, but managed to score enough in the first inning to clinch the verdict.

With Specs Meadows in the box the Pirates had little difficulty in disposing of Boston 10-4. The Pirate attack was led by Cuyler with a trio of safe punches.

The Cubs took another from the Giants yesterday 9-5 when Stephenson was particularly bothersome with the willow, getting four out of four. Wilson and Grimm likewise added into the attack and managed enough hits to insure the Cub victory. The continued Cub attack has left New York stranded temporarily in sixth place.

Murderers Row got busy for the Yanks again yesterday and the Browns footed the bill. The Yanks scored eight runs in the first inning, winding up the afternoon 8-2. Led by Ben Paschal with a home run the Yanks sailed around the sacks in the first inning and had little noise from the Brown attack from that point henceforth. The Yanks gained a full game on the A's who were taking a good sized beating from Detroit 8-3. Clyde Manion, Tyger catcher, had to retire with a split finger in the seventh inning, making the third Tyger catcher who has been placed on the injured list. Hayworth, a Toronto rookie took his place and will probably be cast in the role of regular for the next few days. Hayworth singled in his only time at bat.

Babe Ruth was fined yesterday on a speeding charge. The Babe pleaded guilty to the charge and peeled off $25 from a huge bank roll. The magistrate asked him, with an infectious grin, if he was Babe Ruth, the Yankee slugger. Ruth replied that he was.

The magistrate continued, "You are charged with speeding, how do you plead?"

"Guilty," was Ruth's reply. "Twenty-five dollars, next case," said the magistrate, as the Babe was busy extracting the necessary item from his pocket.

Coast League are as conspicuous in the major leagues this year as raisins in restaurant pudding. Among last year's graduates now in the "big time" are Tony Lazzeri (Salt Lake City) with the Yankees; Paul Wagner (San Francisco) Pittsburgh; Babe Herman (Seattle) Brooklyn; Red Lucas (Seattle) Boston Nationals; Bill Hunnefeld (Portland) White Sox, and Jackie Warner (Vernon) Detroit Tigers.

Other players, who have been "up for more than a year, are Jimmy Poole (Portland) and Catcher Cochran (Portland) with the Athletics; Dick Cox (Portland) with Brooklyn; Irish Menseel (Los Angeles) and Bob Meusel (Vernon) now with the New York Giants and Yankees, respectively; Harry Heilmann (San Francisco) the hard-hitting outfielder of the Tigers, and Vic Aldridge (Los Angeles) now pitching for Pittsburgh.

"Also in Minors
Former Coast leaguers are just as prominent in the minors. Jim Blakesley, former Vernon outfielder, is hitting over .400 for Omaha.

Nick Dumovich, former Los Angeles manager, is doing well by Kansas City, and Fay Thomas, former University of Southern California pitcher, is with Toledo.

In the Western league, these former coast league players, are hitting around .300; Pete Compton, Wichita; O'Brien, Denver; Tony Rego, Wichita; Blenkiron, Lincoln; Gordman, Denver; Horn Denver; Meyers, Omaha.

Catcher Yaryan is slugging right and left for Birmingham and Charley Deal of New Orleans has been doing better than 300.

In the Texas League, Ping Bodis San Antonio; Joe Mathes, Houston; DeMaggio, Houston; Edington, Fort Worth; Loper, Wichita Falls; Lindimore, Fort Worth and Vigore, Houston are well-known to Coast League fans.

Watched By Majors
There are a number of players in the Pacific Coast league this year upon whom long glances have been cast by major league clubs. Catcher Shea of Sacramento, it is reported is wanted by a dozen big league clubs. Just why the other four clubs refuse to make it unanimous has not been explained.

Eleven teams in the American and National Leagues are said to be after Lynford Lary of Oakland. Other promising players, not subject to a draft, and likely candidates for a major league try-out, include the following:

Second baseman Jimmy Reese of Oakland.
Shortstop Monk Sherlock of the San Francisco Mission.
Earl Averill, outfielder for San Francisco Seals.
Outfielder "Fuzzy" Hutt of Seattle, and Outfielder "Boss" Arlett of Oakland, both of whom hit .300.

Third baseman Jim McLaughlin of Sacramento.

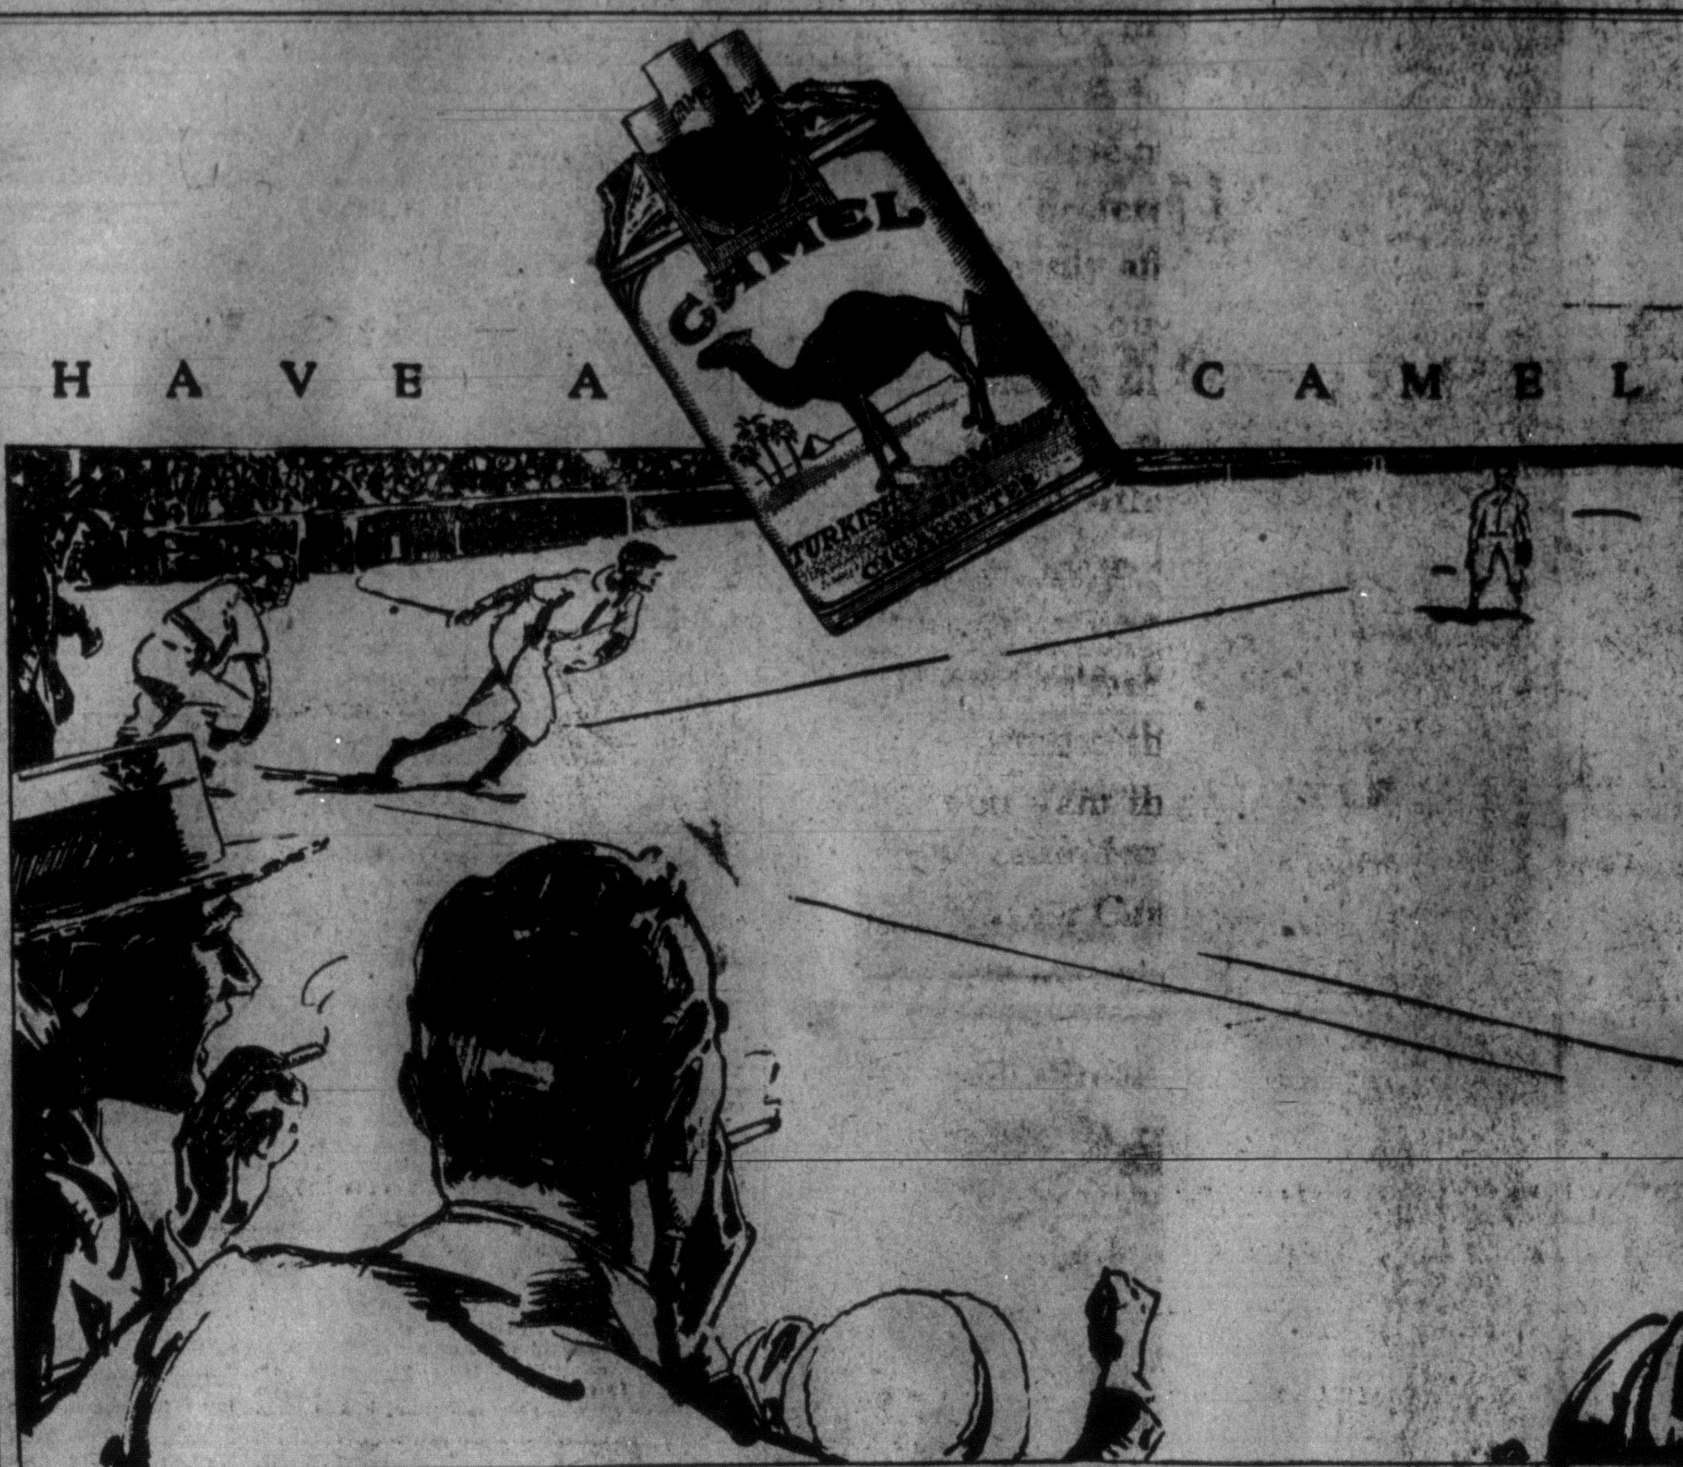

Pitcher Fred Orin, young left hander with Portland, has shown a lot of stuff and ought to bring a good price on the auction block.

No other cigarette ever made such a hit with the world as Camel. Millions cheered the arrival of this famous cigarette—because of its ever-dependable quality. Camel is overwhelmingly the world's favorite smoke.

Camel championship lasts through the years, because for satisfying pleasure, for downright enjoyment no other cigarette is within a mile of Camel. It's simply impossible to smoke enough Camels to tire the taste. They never leave a cigarette after-taste.

And mere money has no voice in Camel preference. Millions who could easily afford to pay the highest price, buy and smoke only Camels. In all walks of life, "Have a Camel" is recognized as quality password to the utmost in cigarettes.

We invite you to try Camels. Into this one brand the world's largest tobacco organization puts the utmost that money can buy. If you want the tastiest smoke that ever came from a cigarette—

Have a Camel!
